What jammer can help me to block GPS monitor in my van?

2019/09/29

Hi Phillip! Many companies in the most countries of the world are using the practice of installing the GPS monitors in their employees' vehicles in order to track their location and always be aware of the places they visit and time of those visits. I guess the company you work for is not an exception. And because of that you want to protect your privacy by all means. To achieve your rightful goal you need to block the signal of this tracker installed in your van. Thus you need to use van GPS monitor jammer to prevent this GPS tracker from sending the data about your location to the base station situated somewhere in the company you work for. This jamming device will help you to maintain your right for personal freedom of movement. As you can see, despite the companies' attempts to control you and watch all your movements, you always have the ability to influence the situation! ;)
